Dear sirs,

I would like to stress the importance of treating Carrigaline, Crosshaven, Ballygarvan and Tracton as one municipal district. I am living in the parish of Tracton and like my neighbors, I have first hand experience of the disruption and confusion to Services caused by the division of this parish between two different local authorities over the last number of years.

I believe that it is essential for the continued growth and wellbeing of this community that it is under a single municipal district and represented by one group of Co. Councilors.

I am currently living in the Bandon /Kinsale district and believe that this area would be best served if associated with Carrigaline. The community of Tracton parish is a very strong, united and progressive group and it is important that it can maintain this unity for council application and when dealing with public representatives.

I trust you will look at my submission positively.

Best Regards.
Martin Horan.
